

STABLE REFUSE A BIG MENACE

Matter Being Strawn on Roads Near City Instead of Being Placed at City Dump

PRACTICE TO BE STOPPED

The agitation against the city dump nuisance has assumed another evil nearer home, an evil that tarts the county with the same stick as that with which the county tarts the city when it warned the city at a recent meeting of the city council that if the garbage dump were not abated the county would take action to compel the city to desist in using the plot just off the county road below Lowell as a dumping place.

Investigation conducted by Dr. Ferguson, acting for the county board of health, led to the discovery that stablemen and transformers of Bisbee and Lowell were dumping the refuse matter of their stables all along the county road, from a half mile to a mile nearer Bisbee than the city dump. Little refuse from the stable has been dumped at the city garbage dump and as that kind of matter is the best known "hot house" for fly culture, it is probable that the majority of the fly army are natives of Lowell rather than Bisbee refuse dump, a mile or more farther down the road.

Practice Must Stop.
Dr. Ferguson acted promptly following his investigation and all stablemen and transformer men were notified yesterday that they must discontinue dumping their stable refuse anywhere except at the city dump and that when it is taken there it must be spread out so that it will be dried and destroyed. Proprietors of livery stables in the city agreed when their attention was called to the nuisance which they were committing to haul their refuse to the city dump hereafter. The county is determined to stop this practice of dumping of refuse all along the road and on a part of the territorial highway and if the ones that have been doing it do not voluntarily desist prompt action will be taken by the county.

Road of Manure.
Investigations of Dr. Ferguson discovered the fact that one of the streets or roadways, though a back one, is wholly constructed of stable manure. This street is the one that borders the ditch back of the E. B. Mason store in Lowell. Bisbee transformers and Lowell transformers have been dumping their stable refuse there, seemingly for months, and the ditch or sewage canal has become fringed for a distance of from fifty to a hundred yards with a well worn roadway or street of solid manure.

Up from this street and the muck gurglers of the ditch itself a mist of house flies arises and invades the whole Warren district. On the other or near side of the "manure highway" is an abandoned lot whose carpet is of the same material, while farther down the ditch three dunes of stable refuse are stacked up against the back wall of the Brophy stables.

Flood Will Spread It.
These dunes are awaiting the descent of the flood, which will scatter the fly-breeding stuff all over the district, but will not destroy it any more than an ostrich hides itself by burying its head in the sand.

From the big gas tank above Lowell to the dumping ground, the traveler along the territorial highway is regaled with the composite stjar of every form of refuse and decaying matter. At the very first culvert of the territorial highway below Lowell, and only a few feet from the bridge at the foot of Main street, Lowell, some one has been dumping the refuse of a stable and from there to the dumping ground unsightly and unsanitary mounds of refuse are to be seen by the traveler along Arizona's highway.

Conditions Are Despicable.
At the city dump the scene is one of indescribable loathsomeness. On a little triangular flat, bordered on two sides by hills and on the other by the territorial highway, created by nature as a beauty spot, anything from a worn-out mattress to the carcass of a disease-killed cow may be seen. Every condition favorable to the perpetuation of flies and the propagation of germs of disease prevails. Physicians agree that it is a wonder bordering upon the miraculous that this district has escaped an epidemic of typhoid and infantile stomach diseases.

Many Live on Refuse.
On the opposite fringe of this meadow of stjar are a small shack of rough lumber and the cans. In these houses reside families of human vultures, whose sole source of income comes from digging up the jewels of refuse, such as rotten fruit, sacks, cans, etc. Until the city started burning the refuse, the vultures flocked out upon the flats as soon as a load of garbage was dumped and, digging into the stuff, they picked out their daily food and things that they might sell. It is said that these vultures take the discarded sacks and resell them to coal dealers who credit them together with what scraps they might have gathered in contact over the district.

Burning the Garbage.
A force of laborers is at work at the dump, raking up the inflammable portion of the refuse and burning it. The field glitters with old tin cans, which are being regathered and loaded onto wagons and will be sold to the mining companies, which utilize them in the manufacture of copper. The refuse will be burned hereafter as it is hauled to the dump, which will in large measure reduce the breeding conditions for flies, but it is conceded that all measures of this nature can be of only temporary character and that the only solution of this problem, the most important the city and county have confronted in years, is the construction of a modern garbage disposal plant.

Buy It Now. Now is the time to buy a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed before the summer is over. This remedy has no superior. For sale by all druggists. 189.

TORTURED FOR 15 YEARS.
by a cure-defying stomach trouble that baffled doctors, and resisted all remedies he tried, John W. Moders, of Modersville, Mich., seemed doomed. He has to sell his farm and give up work. His neighbors said, "he can't live much longer." "Whatever I ate distressed me," he wrote, "till I tried Electric Bitters, which worked such wonders for me that I can now eat things I could not take for years. It's surely a grand remedy for stomach trouble." Just as good for the liver and kidneys. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50c at all druggists.

WILL NOT MAKE LEVY UNLESS 80 PER CENT IS SPENT IN COUNTY

Unless the territorial board of control consents to the expenditure of 80 per cent of the money raised for road purposes by this county in the county no road levy will be made above 5 per cent, according to a resolution adopted by the Cochise county board of supervisors in session at Tombstone Monday.

The 5 per cent levy is all that is required by law. The supervisors took the position that Cochise has been shouldering the burden of road expenditure without a fair return long enough.

Will Survey Valley.
The county will, within the next few days, begin a survey of the roads in the Sulphur Springs valley. This action was determined upon at the meeting of the supervisors, when a committee from the Cochise County Taxpayers' association petitioned the board to survey the roads.

The roads that will be surveyed are the ones already constructed and the action was taken to prevent settlers in the Sulphur Springs valley from taking up lands on the road courses and building fences across the highways, which will be illegal when the surveys of the roads are on file. Many settlers are taking up lands in the valley and this action was deemed necessary in order to protect the county roads.

Will Survey 265 Miles.
The first survey will be out of Bisbee to the Huachuca by way of Hereford and after that the roads between other county points in the valley will be surveyed. The work will be done by County Surveyor McNish and a total of 265 miles will be surveyed.

Supervisor J. J. Bowen returned yesterday from Tombstone, where he attended the meeting Monday. Among the representatives of the county taxpayers' association present were: H. A. Morgan of Wilcox, Tom O'Leary of Wilcox, A. Y. Smith of Pearce, Mr. Reno of Pearce, Mr. McIlriddle of Pearce, John P. Cull of Courtland and others.

BISBEE FAMILY MAY RECEIVE FORTUNE

Contest Begins in United States Circuit Court at Los Angeles

A legal battle which, if successful, will make a Bisbee family wealthy, was begun in the United States circuit court at Los Angeles Monday morning. The case is a proceeding against the McGurk estate, said to be worth about a million dollars. The Bisbee claimant is L. S. McGurk of Wood Canyon, formerly manager of the Stanton business college here. Mr. McGurk is at present at Phoenix, having been transferred to the college there, but Mrs. McGurk and children, together with her husband's sister, Miss McGurk, reside in Wood Canyon.

Into the case enter unusual allegations of fraudulent heirship, asserted to have been established without the basis of even remote relationship, suppression of assets amounting to two-thirds of the total estate, and other moves which, if successful, will cut off a sister and brother from a huge fortune and send them, almost penniless, back to their native rod of Newry, Armagh county, Ireland.

Bisbee Family's Claim.
The Bisbee family claims relationship to the original McGurk and will prosecute its claim to a portion of the million dollar estate. The Los Angeles Times prints the following regarding the case:

"The case is that brought by five residents of Ohio, who aver they are the nearest surviving relatives of Edward McGurk, the wealthy San Diego man, and that Michael and Elizabeth McGurk of Newry, who received the bulk of the estate, resorted to fraud to get the money."

"Attorneys Glen Behrmer and Nicholas Bristow for the Ohioans, will combat a demurrer interposed by Attorneys Isidore B. Dockweiler and Eugene Daney, counsel for the McGurks, which contends there is no cause of action in the Federal courts. Successful in this, the plaintiffs will then ask the appointing of a receiver to cut off further use of the estate by the McGurks and others."

Five for a Fortune.
The plaintiffs are Isabella Giffin, Anna Myers, Mary France, Robert McGonaghy and John A. McGonaghy. They say they are full brothers and sisters. Their father was Johnathan McGonaghy, a son of Mary McGonaghy, whose maiden name, the contestants assert, was Mary McGurk and who was a full sister of the testator. There were two brothers and another sister, but these, according to their statement, died without issue, leaving them, as grandchildren, the sole heirs of the San Diego man.

Johnathan McGonaghy tells of letters received from Edward McGurk, whom he claims at one time spelled his name "McGurk" and went under the name of Patrick. He also asserts that in 1897 the testator paid him a visit; that he continued to write until a short time before his death, but that no intelligence was received of his demise.

"The plaintiffs incorporate the following dispatch in their complaint, which they claim was published in a Chicago newspaper and gave them their first intimation of McGurk's death:

"Dublin, Ireland, April 7.—After a lapse of almost 18 months and fruitless inquiries in Ireland, Scotland and the north of England, a final effort is being made to discover the heirs of a former county Armagh man, named Patrick McGurk. Over 50 years ago he emigrated to California and died intestate two years ago, leaving a fortune of $300,000."

"Inquiry they started was too late to prevent the distribution of the estate. The available cash, amounting to $21,212.56, had been divided into 180 parts. Michael McGurk got 74 of these, including the share of a deceased nephew, or $5,733.95; his sister, Elizabeth, $4,366.55; Attorney Dockweiler, $4,729.56; Eugene Daney, $2,360.28; and Patrick J. O'Hare, a solicitor of Newry, Ireland, who attended to the interests of the heirs in that country, got $1,062.12. The real estate and other property has not yet been apportioned."

To Fight to End.
"D. A. Tyler is here as the personal representative of the Ohio contestants, all of whom hail from the city of Bridgeport. He said yesterday that all of his clients were in comfortable circumstances, and that John A. McGonaghy is worth $100,000."

"Mr. McGonaghy is going to the last ditch with this fight," said Tyler. "He has proof of his claims which are indisputable. It is only a question of his being able to surmount the legal obstacles so that this evidence can be produced in court."

"Attorney Behrmer, who made a trip to Ireland for the contestants, said yesterday that there were some genuine surprises in store for the defendants, once the preliminaries were aside and a chance afforded to make an attack on the evidence of kinship the McGurks offered to secure title to the estate. If they lose their fight today the attorneys expect to carry the case up to the United States supreme court."
